The Wyandotte Nation has been known for centuries as “Keepers of the Council Fire.” Our warrior tradition is well known. What may not be as apparent is our history as builders and traders.

It is obvious today that we are productive builders. Our tribal structures are a common sight in the Wyandotte Nation, and most of these buildings are new or nearly new. What is not discussed often enough is the important role those buildings play in our service to Wyandotte citizens, and to our communities as a whole.

Our mission is always to serve the Wyandotte people. We build because the facilities we develop help us fulfill our mission of “improving the lives of our Wyandotte people.” Buildings are just buildings, unless they are used for a program, service or business that serves our tribal community.

Bearskin Healthcare and Wellness Center is a great example. Many of us remember going to the Seneca Indian Clinic or Claremore Indian Hospital growing up in this area. While we appreciated the limited services we received, those facilities were both overcrowded, understaffed and underfunded. When we compacted in 1994 to provide health care for our own citizens, it was immediately clear we would have to invest in a modern facility. Additionally, Wyandotte citizens consistently expressed health care was their main concern. When we compare the former that preceded it, it is obvious we have taken a great step forward in the delivery of quality health care to our patients, and to all patients seeking health care.

Once again, we are in the process of building on to our facility to provide more services to tribal citizens. The new addition will provide a drive thru pharmacy, physical therapy services, expanded laboratory as well as additional exam rooms and offices.

Furthermore, we believe quality education is important to the success and happiness of our Wyandotte citizens and Wyandotte families. Our Preschool (Turtle Tots) has always and continues to be one of the top programs in our area. With the recent addition of toddler and infant programs, we have outgrown our facilities and once again are remodeling and looking to expand as that program continues to grow. Year after year, the Wyandotte Nation invests more resources in education for the full range of Wyandotte students. The Board of Directors recently voted to raise both undergraduate and master’s program scholarships to $3,000 per semester.

We have also dedicated several million dollars to housing initiatives over the past few years with housing projects such as Heritage Acres and Wyandotte Ridge, and have just recently begun infrastructure work on Turtle Hill Estates and hope to start building homes there in 2022.

Economically, the Wyandotte Nation businesses stayed on course during the 2020 pandemic, and we did more than just survive. This summer we opened up our third Turtle Stop Convenience store in Seneca, Mo., and it is off to a great start. We also opened up our newest gaming operation Crosswinds Casino in Park City, Kansas, and are currently adding an additional 10,000 square feet to that facility, which will be opened by Jan. 1, 2022.

Kelly Carpino, CEO of WTOK and her management team has done an excellent job of making our facilities safe and secure. Our employees continue to provide great service and are committed to keeping our patrons safe. While companies across the country cut work forces, we reinvested in our people and recognized great results. Our economic base today is rock solid, and is built to serve Wyandotte people.

Each day we remind ourselves that we work for you – the Wyandotte people. Our goal every day is to serve you well, to make your life better, and to bring you the programs and services you need. Yes, we have exceptional facilities we have built to bring the best of our tribe to you. However, our most important investment is in the solid foundation represented by the persevering and prevailing Wyandotte people.

Building a better future

“Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might; for there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wisdom, in the grave, whither thou goest.”

From the Second Chief

A return to normalcy possible

Kweh,

Wyandotte Citizens I hope you all are healthy and enjoying the weather in your respective areas. Our California Wyandottes are experiencing almost everything that Mother Nature can throw at them, hopefully they will get some relief from the drought conditions that has hit the entire Western United States.

I know everyone is tired of hearing about COVID and I am certainly tired of talking about it, but the only way to get back to some sort of normalcy is for as many people as possible to get vaccinated. There are a lot of people who are against getting vaccinated for one reason or another, but the bottom line is COVID has killed over 700,000 people in the United States alone. It is the worst pandemic to have ever plagued this country, but we have the means to really slow it down or maybe even stop it, and that is the vaccine. There are big things happening here at the Wyandotte Nation. The pharmacy expansion at Bearskin Clinic is weeks ahead of schedule, our new drive-thru COVID testing and vaccination building is almost finished, the infrastructure for Turtle Hill Estates is progressing nicely and phase 2 at Wyandotte Ridge has been completed. The Nutrition Center, otherwise known as Title VI, opened back up Oct. 12 to serve lunches to Native American elders in our area. I am looking forward to that myself as Brenda and her staff do a fantastic job of feeding and looking out for our elders.

Recently, the history of the deaths of so many Native American children at boarding schools across the U.S. and Canada was brought up in the news. It is certainly another dark moment in the history of this nation when it comes to the American Indian, so here is a little history about the infamous boarding schools:

Beginning in the 19th century, boarding schools played a fundamental cycle in the programs designed by the U.S. government to foster the assimilation of native peoples into the mainstream of American society. Reformers and politicians who favored the policy of reservation allotment also advanced the concept of placing Indian children in residential schools where they would speak English, learn a vocation, and practice farming. Advocates of boarding schools argued that industrial training, in combination with several years of isolation from family, would diminish the influence of tribalism on a new generation of American Indians. For 50 years after the first federally administered residential school was established in 1879 at Carlisle, Pa., thousands of Native American children and youth were sent to live, work, and be educated in the schools.

Boarding-school attendance increased dramatically when Congress increased funding for Indian education in the 1870s. The Indian Industrial School at Carlisle was the most well-known of the Indian boarding schools, and developed a reputation for athleticism and winning football teams. Jim Thorpe, the most famous Native American athlete of the 20th century, was a student at Carlisle when he won the decathlon and pentathlon during the Olympic Games in Sweden in 1912. Indian students like Thorpe were recruited to Pennsylvania from many tribes and regions in the West. Carlisle’s founder, Richard Henry Pratt, a former officer in the U.S. military, designed the simple boarding-school program. Ideally, students were to spend half the day in the classroom and the remainder in manual labor. The education-oriented “outing program” was also a trademark of Pratt’s that many other schools adopted. His goal was encapsulated in the phrase “Kill the Indian and save the man.” The transition to boarding-school life seldom came smoothly for Indian children. The experience was punctuated by the trauma of separation from family and community, bouts of homesickness, and a difficult period of adjustment to a new environment. The loneliness students experienced was compounded by harsh policies that strictly regulated visits home. Officials limited the frequency and duration of children’s visits to their families, contending that relatives and other community members would hinder the work of assimilation, or that newly reformed and educated students would lapse into their former “degraded” lifestyles. For Indian children, it often meant an extended stay of four years or more at school. Inflexible boarding-school regulations developed into a source of conflict between parents and school officials. As one mother complained to a school superintendent at the Flandreau Boarding School in South Dakota, where her daughter resided, “It seems that it would be much easier to get her out of prison than out of your school.”

The boarding-school setting also proved to be conducive to the spread of disease. Many of the Indian deaths during the great influenza pandemic of 1918, which hit the Native American population hard, took place in boarding schools. At Haskell alone, over 300 students grew critically ill, and many died. In the early 20th century, tuberculosis, the contagious and painful eye diseases, afflicted nearly half of the boarding-school population.

Tuberculosis was also commonplace in government boarding schools, where disease and healthy students intermingled. Little effort was made to provide afflicted children with special care to enriched diets. In letters to their family members, students sometimes complained of poor health. In 1924 a young student from Ashland, Wis., requested that she be sent to a tuberculosis sanatorium rather than attend school while suffering the effects of the disease. The girl, miserable because of painful lesions on her legs that refused to heal, complained about the constant drilling and marching that was so much a part of the boarding-school regimen. The student tried to reason with her superintendent when she said: “How do you expect me to learn and study when I suffer so? . . . Would you rather have me go away to a sanatorium and get well and then I can learn and be happy or, have me going to school and suffer?” By 1924, when this letter was written, students with tuberculosis had long been “officially” excluded from attending government boarding schools.

Native American parents often charged boarding schools with ravaging the health of their children. In letters to school superintendents and sometimes to the Indian Office in Washington, parents complained about the outing programs, the long days, the work details, and the fact that boarding schools relied heavily on unpaid student labor for their operation. Some parents grew so concerned about the deteriorating health of their children that they refused to return them to boarding schools. The father of another student wrote to Flandreau in 1913 to explain his son’s absence in September. The man, a cattle rancher, simply said he “preferred to have a live cowboy rather than a dead scholar.” Unfortunately, hundreds of Native American children did not survive the boarding-school experience. Many Indian schools, including Haskell, Carlisle, Chemawa (in Oregon), and others, maintained cemeteries to bury the many Indian children who succumbed to sickness and disease. There is an investigation going on right now into the burials on boarding-school properties.

A quick note: I get my information for my articles from many different sources, take for instance in the last Turtle Talk, The Death of Jane McCrea, 1777, I used the book written by Lloyd Divine “On the Back of a Turtle” for that bit of history. If you don’t have Lloyd’s book in your library at home it is a very good source for Wyandotte History, and I urge you to pick up a copy.
Remembering Juanita

Wyandotte Nation's real life 'Rosie the Riveter' played pivotal role in where the Tribe is today

BY WILLIAM SWAIM

To sum up Juanita McQuistion, you would need more words than this article could possibly provide. She was a historian and genealogist for the Wyandotte Nation; served on the Tribe’s Grievance Committee and the Board of Directors for more than 20 years; was a member of the Rebekah Lodge; served on the Citizen Committee for Urban Renewal; was a homeroom Mother for McKinley School; did office work for Wayne Pack; and was a real life ‘Rosie the Riveter.’

Juanita was instrumental in helping the Tribe become what it is today, preserving and collecting key records in the 1960s during the termination era, keeping the history of the Tribe alive throughout her involvement, and most recently, served on the Board of Directors until she passed from this life Sept. 17, 2021. Juanita was 94.

“Juanita was part of the glue that held the tribe together for many years,” said Wyandotte Nation Chief Billy Friend. “She dedicated countless unpaid hours over several decades keeping our records, history and other information protected. She was instrumental in helping lay the foundation of which we continue to build upon today.”

‘Juanita the Riveter’

Juanita was born April 19, 1927, in Wyandotte, Okla., to Grover E. and Palma Mae (Ellison) McQuistion, Sr.

Her family eventually moved to Pawnee, Okla., where Juanita grew up near the reservation there, before moving to Wichita, Kansas.

This is where she went to work in an aircraft plant and became the Wyandotte Nation’s real life ‘Rosie the Riveter.’

Juanita attended one semester of high school before dropping out and moving to Wichita to work at a hospital.

“Well, I found out I could make more money working in a defense plant,” Juanita said during a video interview with Tribal Heritage Director Sherri Clemons. “I put an application in, and I took training for two weeks to work in the defense plant.”

Juanita worked on the jigs for the air flaps. She also worked on stabilizers, and in turn, had worked with rivets and had to know the different sizes for the different jobs.

“Yeah, I was like Rosie the Riveter,” Juanita said laughing. She was 15-16 years old at the time.

While she could laugh during the interview, at the time, worry over her brothers is what filled her days. “They (defense plant) come and told us we’re going to have to work a week at a time. Well, we knew then things were getting bad,” she said.

“What we did at noon time, we all had a sack lunch together, and we would pray for our men who were in service. Everybody there had people in service... brothers, fathers, mothers, and all. We would open up one of the doors to the outside to get fresh air, and we would all stand there and pray for all the men in service. And I was just scared to death I would never see my brothers again.”

The Early Days with the Tribe

After her work at the aircraft plant, she returned to Oklahoma where she met and married Leon McQuistion. The two were married until his passing in 2017. They had four children, Carol Rentfrow, Oresa King, and Leon McQuistion, Jr. all of Miami, OK, and Anita Vandiver of Okesa, OK.

Juanita was always interested in Indian history from her days living in Pawnee, so following a visit from Wyandotte Chief Lawrence Zane in the early 1960s, she began working with the Tribe.

Wyandotte Nation Second Chief Norman Hildebrand, Jr., said she was one of the last Tribal elders that helped keep the Wyandotte Nation going during the termination era.

“My chief thing was trying to find records, because we didn’t have any,” Juanita said about her time in the 60s. “I spent days looking up records at the Bureau of Indian Affairs, which back then was at the Post Office.

“I wanted to try and get all the books registered that I knew we had within the Tribe. ... So I was on the hunt for anything that pertained to the Wyandotte Nation that would tell us about our people.”

She said other than the preservation of Wyandotte heritage, the health of tribal citizens was something she and others focused on during that time.

“We found out a lot of the Indians didn’t have the money, no cars to take them to Claremore to see the doctor, I wanted to see the doctor, I wanted to see

Juanita was someone you didn’t want to mess with.

Juanita was someone you didn’t want to the clinic later on – let’s just say, the doctor, I wanted to see needed. If any of us had a question, we knew we could

She was the Ka-We-Ne-Ha-We (Keeper of Traditions).

Juanita was introduced in an article for the 1996 Pow-Wow Program as the Pow-Wow was dedicated in honor of her, that stated: If you want to know anything about the history of the Wyandotte Tribe, ask Juanita, she said, adding that it included all the supplies the clinic needed.

She also recounted a story going to the clinic later on – let’s just say, Juanita was someone you didn’t mess with.

“They wanted to do something about education and try to get us a clinic, a close place where the Indians could come and be treated for different things.”

She said they finally got established there and the doctors from Claremore would come in a station wagon and back up to this little house.

Whatever doctor came in the station wagon would treat the patients who were the sickest and we would all unload the things that was in the station wagon,” she said, adding that it included all the supplies the clinic needed.

She also recounted a story going to the clinic later on – let’s just say, Juanita was someone you didn’t mess with.

“I took my son down there, we went in and told the lady we wanted to see the doctor, I wanted to see the doctor for my son. I gave her my name,” Juanita said. “She looked at me, and she said, ‘you are not eligible at this clinic.’ I said, ‘I’m not? All right, you write me a letter and tell me why I am not eligible, and you and the doctor sign it and date it.’ She said, ‘who are you?’ I said, ‘it makes no difference who I am, I am just an Indian needing medical help.’

“We went to see the doctor and there was nothing else said. But when I got home, I called Leonard Cotter up and told him what happened, and I said ‘you get rid of that woman. If you don’t, and if I go down there, and she is there, you just look out.’”

Serving the Tribe

Juanita was featured in an article for the 1996 Pow-Wow Program as the Pow-Wow was dedicated in honor of her, that stated: If you want to know anything about the history of the Wyandotte Tribe, ask Juanita, she said, adding that it included all the supplies the clinic needed.

It was that drive to learn about her heritage and preserve it in the 60s that continued throughout her time serving the Tribe in a variety of ways. Her work with Clemons and others in preserving that history was something she cherished.

“I loved it, I loved every bit of it,” Juanita said. “We were working for a cause so our people could know their history.”

Clemons said she will be greatly missed.

“Juanita was so dedicated to the nation as a whole. She wanted everyone to know who their people were and where they came from,” Clemons said. “She loved the Wyandotte people.”

It was not only her love of history and the past that drove Juanita, it was also the Tribe’s future that was important to her and she played a vital role by serving on the Board of Directors until her passing.

Second Chief Hildebrand said he would take her board packet to her when she was in the nursing home, and he would often sit and visit with her. He said her knowledge was endless and they would learn something new from her at every board meeting.

“Needless to say she led quite a life from living on the Pawnee Reservation to becoming our own Rosie the Riveter to serving on the Board of Directors for many years,” Second Chief Hildebrand said. “Getting to know this lady and serving on the Board of Directors with her was an education and an extreme honor. The dedication and service she gave to the Wyandotte Nation was not out of duty but out of the love she had for the Wyandotte people.”

What Juanita did for the Tribe won’t end with her passing.

“Juanita made an immeasurable positive impact upon the Wyandotte Nation that will continue on for years to come,” Chief Friend said.

News & Notes

Bartley, Scribner retire from Turtle Tots program

The Wyandotte Nation Turtle Tots are saying goodbye to two long-time educators in Debbie Scribner and Sharon Bartley – but the two, who have had such an impact on the lives of many youth, aren’t completely going away after their recent retirement announcements. Debbie was honored for her 13-plus years of service to the Wyandotte Nation and Bartley for her 32-plus years. The two have agreed to substitute so they will still impact so many more.

“Sharon and Debbie were both great assets to the Education team,” said Wyandotte Nation Education Director Cristi Hudson. “Always willing to help anywhere that help was needed. If any of us had a question, we knew we could count on them for the answer.

“Most of all, they loved the kids and their families. They have each impacted so many lives during their time with us! We are grateful they have both agreed to sub for us so we will continue getting to work alongside them on occasion.”

The Tribe held retirement parties for both who impacted so many lives.
Keffer recognized as Honored Person

As an elder of the Wyandotte Nation, Tom is a retired archaeologist who has spent many years digging into the histories and ‘footprint’ left by the various cultures.

Tom has stated he has always been struck by the notion that a grave marker is many times the only physical reminder of a person. This realization is what inspired him to take on the task of cleaning, repairing and preserving the many grave markers in the cemeteries of the Wyandotte Nation.

Tom started with a tribal cemetery in Wyandotte and then progressed to three other area cemeteries. He is now working on the grave markers of Wyandotte peoples interred in the Huron/Wyandotte Cemetery in Kansas City, Kansas.

More than three years into his mission, Tom has donated countless hours to ensuring the many hundreds of Wyandotte ancestors’ grave markers are fresh and preserved for years to come.

Chief Friend and Second Chief Hildebrand, Jr. honor Tom Keffer as its Honored Person at the Annual Meeting Saturday, Sept. 11.

He is an inspiring, self-appointed steward of the Wyandotte tribal past and its future to come.

Wyandotte Nation awarded library grant

The Institute of Museum and Library Services awarded the Wyandotte Nation $136,552 to address community needs based on results from a three-year strategic plan involving tribal leadership and the rural, tribal community. The project will create a literacy station to provide early, digital, and other literacies to youth and their families; the formation of a LEGO club to conduct science, technology, reading, engineering, arts, and mathematics lessons; and family event nights with culture and native craft lessons to advance cultural and civic engagement.

Chief signs proclamation to raise awareness for domestic violence

Wyandotte Nation Chief Billy Friend signs a Proclamation from the Tribe for its support in raising awareness to the problem of Domestic Violence & Sexual Assault. Also pictured is Domestic Violence & Sexual Assault Advocate/Educator Supervisor Lisa Arnold, and Victim Advocates Ceslie Chandler and Katie Griffin. The signing was held at the new Administration Building’s patio area.

Our Family Violence Prevention Program Advocates also hosted a ‘Lunch & Learn’ and shared a story of survival in a case of domestic violence. Arnold shared the story, showing the trauma from abuse, the difficulties facing a survivor, the importance of advocacy, and hope.

Check out the video from the proclamation signing on our YouTube channel: www.youtube.com/WyandotteNation.

Tribe donates to Sheriff’s Office

We donated $60,000 to the Ottawa County Sheriff’s Department for the purchase of a new patrol vehicle for the department. Wyandotte Nation Chief Billy Friend, Second Chief Norman Hildebrand, and Board of Directors members Ramona Reid, Vivian Fink and Eric Lofland presented the check to Ottawa County Sheriff David Dean.

“We’ve always said that wherever we are at, we want to be a good neighbor,” said Chief Friend, adding that the Wyandotte Nation Tribal Police Department works closely with the Sheriff’s Department. “We are a strong supporter of law enforcement, now more than ever.”

The Wyandotte Nation Board of Directors approved the donation at their recent meeting. Funding for the donation came from our economic development provided by our corporation, Wyandotte Tribe of Oklahoma (WTOK).

Applications, along with guidelines, will be available on the home page of the Tribe’s website. Please note there are separate applications for the gift card and reimbursement program. Be sure to read the instruction letter that will accompany the applications as there are changes for the program. If you did not return your receipts for either the School Supplies or last year’s Winter Clothing gift cards, you will be required to use the reimbursement program this year. Incomplete applications will be returned to the sender.

Senior Energy (Winter) – This program is available nationwide. $100 will be paid directly to the utility provider for citizens who are 55 and older. Program dates are Oct. 1 through Feb. 28. Citizens are encouraged to continue to pay their bills as normal and a $100 credit will display on their statement when the payment has been processed.

LIHEAP – LIHEAP is a federal grant-funded program. If funding is received, services will be available beginning Dec. 1 for tribal citizens who reside in Oklahoma. This program is income-based and proof of income and other documentation is required.

APPLICATIONS FOR THE ABOVE PROGRAMS MUST BE RECEIVED OR POST MARKED BY Feb. 28 TO BE ELIGIBLE AND BILLS/RECEIPTS MUST BE DATED BETWEEN OCT. 1, 2021 AND FEB. 28, 2022 – NO EXCEPTIONS.

• Program is available to enrolled citizens 18 (enrolled in high school) and under who reside in the states of Oklahoma, Missouri, Arkansas and Kansas.
• All purchases need to be rang up separately for each child!
• Please only have program eligible items on each child’s receipts and there should only be one child’s purchases on any receipt that is submitted with the application.
• Allowable purchases include: coats, gloves, earmuffs, scarves, winter hats (no ball caps), pants, shirts, socks, underwear, pajamas and shoes/boots.

Other Programs provided by the Family Services Department:
Child Safety Seats - Each child is eligible for three seats in different sizes and must be picked up at the tribal office. We make every effort to keep all car seat sizes on hand. Call in advance to make sure we have the correct seat size available.

Promoting Safe & Stable Families/Indian Child Welfare – This program is funded through a federal grant from the Administration for Children and Families. It is designed to help keep children in their homes with the family or ensure that if there is a need for removal that federal guidelines are adhered to and the best interest of the child is first and foremost. If your family is in a situation where the state is involved, please contact either of the ICW Social Workers. The Tribe is continually seeking foster families. If you’re interested in sharing your home with a child in need, please contact Tara or Carmalita at the numbers listed below.

Enrollment – Aug. 15 is the deadline to be considered for enrollment at the 2022 Annual Meeting. Applications must be submitted along with an original state certified birth certificate. Applications can be submitted at any during the year and birth certificates will be returned within 10-14 business days.

New Enrollee Benefit - If a child’s application is received prior to their first birthday, they will receive a $100 Walmart gift card and a blanket with the Tribal Turtle.

Tribal Tags – Available for tribal citizens who reside in Oklahoma. Passenger, RV, Motorcycle and Handicapped tags are available. Please call the office for prices and additional information. All new requests must be accompanied by the original title and proof of insurance. Renewals require a proof of insurance. Incomplete requests will be returned to the tribal citizen.

Supplemental Health Benefit (Benny Card) – This program has been renewed and accounts will be reloaded Jan. 1, 2022. The benefits will be the same as previous years with a $1,000 per year benefit for adult (18 and older) tribal citizens. Tribal citizens who have enrolled Wyandotte Nation dependents receive an additional $1,000 for a maximum of $2,000 per account. Individuals who were voted into citizenship at the Annual Meeting will receive their account information in December and accounts will be active Jan. 1, 2022. Trustmark mails an annual statement in December to show remaining balances. Account balances can also be obtained by calling 800-990-9058 ext 42086. There is also a handy app for smart phones where you can check balances, scan in-store items to check eligibility and file reimbursement claims.

Please see the Nation’s website for a flyer detailing the steps to set up accounts on the app. As a reminder for the end of year program, 2021 funds must be expended by Dec. 31. There is not a grace period for the use of the debit card. If the card is used Jan. 1 or after, the funds will come out of the 2022 allowance. If you have 2021 charges you need to claim after Jan. 1, you will need to make the payment, then file for a reimbursement no later than Feb. 28, 2022.

Burial Assistance - The benefit amount for this program was increased to $2,000 for any deaths that occur after Oct. 1, 2021. An application is required along with a copy of the death certificate and a statement from the funeral home/crematory. Payment can be made directly to the service provider or to the family representative with proof of payment. Applications must be submitted within 90 days of the tribal citizen’s death.

Family Violence Prevention Program (FVPP): This program is funded through grants from the Office of Violence Against Women (OVW), Family Violence Prevention Safety Act/Administration for Children and Families and Office of Victims of Crime. Funds can be used to provide advocacy to individuals who are victims of domestic violence, sexual assault, dating violence, human trafficking and stalking. In 2021, we added an advocate to assist with cases of elder abuse and the tribal Crime Victims Advocate, Kristi Johnston, relocated from the Police Department to Family Services. Kristi is able to assist all victims of crimes, which will be a valuable asset to the program.

Services for victims include shelter, utilities, food, clothing, transportation, court accompaniment, counseling, legal assistance, etc. and can be provided to victims who reside within a 25-mile radius of the Wyandotte Nation headquarters. Victims do not need to be Wyandotte or Native to receive services.

On Oct. 12, Chief Friend signed a proclamation declaring that the Wyandotte Nation would honor October as Domestic Violence Awareness Month. On Oct. 19, the staff hosted a Lunch and Learn titled “A Case Study on Domestic Violence” and on the 23rd the Annual Scarecrow 5K and Fun Run was held, with donations of personal care items taken in lieu of entry fee, which were then donated to the local women’s shelter.

Tiny Homes: Two Tiny homes have been added to the Heritage Acres housing community and are currently being used for the purpose of quarantine for individuals who have tested positive for COVID-19 and need a safe place to stay away from their family.

Planning & Natural Resources

Submitted by Christen Lee, Environmental & Planning Director

The Wyandotte Nation’s mission is, “To advance the standard of living of the Tribe...and to promote in any other way the general welfare of the Indians of the Wyandotte Nation.”

To carry this mission forward in our tribal community, the Planning and Natural Resources Department provide a variety of services including, but not limited to, private well drinking water sampling, and septic assessments for private homeowners. We also encourage and provide a place to recycle. Lost Creek Recycling Center is open to the community and surrounding area Monday through Thursday from 8 am to 4:30 pm and Friday from 8 am to 3:30 pm. The facility can accept the following materials: paper, plastic, cardboard, tin and aluminum.

The Planning and Natural Resources Department is also dedicated to researching and applying for federal, state, and foundation grants to benefit the Tribe and tribal community. Projects often serve tribal citizens within a 50-mile radius of tribal headquarters; however, some formula funded grants may serve citizens within a 100-mile radius. Ultimately, the department’s desire is to serve and create a positive impact on all Wyandottes across the United States.

Feel free to contact our department anytime.

if you have a community project idea for a grant.

Environmental

The Environmental Department Staff has been busy with the day-to-day activities and duties. Our water Tech and Tech II personnel had several sampling events to get finished by the end of the fiscal year. They have done a tremendous job working to stay on schedule and working around the obstacles of heavy rains in the spring and summer months, and also with COVID restrictions.

Staff performed site walks on two tribal properties per our EPA GAP Grant. During the site walks we looked for any dumpsites or any other potential environmental issues. We are pleased to say that both properties were free from any issues or concerns.

John Gerhard and Kathleen Welch, along with M&J Services performed three Septic Assessments during the month of September. Of the three assessed, two were found to be working properly, and one system is failing. Our plans are to replace the failing system within the next few months.

Meet the Department

I’d like to introduce Jon Quick. Jon has worked for the Wyandotte Nation for nine years and is our main go to person for the Lost Creek Recycle Center. Jon keeps up with four cardboard trailers, two Alley Cat collection trailers, outside cardboard bins and inside recycle stations at the various offices throughout the tribal complex, and recently started picking up the cardboard at the two other Turtle Stop Convenient stores in Grove, Okla., and Seneca, Mo. Along with that, he has a shredder and Jon and other staff spend a lot of time with this process. Jon is also responsible for arranging the pickup and shipping of materials to be sent to SMURFIT Recycling in Arkansas.

Boosters are only available for some Pfizer-BioNTech Vaccine recipients. Only certain populations initially vaccinated with the Pfizer-BioNTech vaccine can get a booster shot at this time:

Older adults and 50-64 year old people with medical conditions

People aged 65 years and older and adults 50–64 years with underlying medical conditions should get a booster shot of Pfizer-BioNTech vaccine. The risk of severe illness from COVID-19 increases with age, and can also increase for adults of any age with underlying medical conditions.

Long-term care setting residents aged 18 years and older

Residents aged 18 years and older of long-term care settings should get a booster shot of Pfizer-BioNTech vaccine. Because residents in long-term care settings live closely together in group settings and are often older adults with underlying medical conditions, they are at increased risk of infection and severe illness from COVID-19.

People with medical conditions aged 18-49 years

People aged 18–49 years with underlying medical conditions may get a booster shot of Pfizer-BioNTech vaccine based on their individual benefits and risks. Adults aged 18–49 years who have underlying medical conditions are at increased risk for severe illness from COVID-19. However, that risk is likely not as high as it would be for adults aged 50 years and older who have underlying medical conditions. People aged 18–49 years who have underlying medical conditions may get a booster shot after considering their individual risks and benefits. This recommendation may change in the future as more data become available.

Employees and residents at increased risk for COVID-19 exposure and transmission

People aged 18–64 years at increased risk for COVID-19 exposure and transmission because of occupational or institutional setting may get a booster shot of Pfizer-BioNTech vaccine based on their individual benefits and risks.

Adults aged 18–64 years who work or reside in certain settings (e.g., health care, schools, correctional facilities, homeless shelters) may be at increased risk of being exposed to COVID-19, which could be spreading where they work or reside. Since that risk can vary across settings and based on how much COVID-19...

Wyandotte Nation Tribal Artisan Showcase

Tribal Heritage
Submitted by Kim Garcia,
Cultural Preservation Officer

Kweh ǫmatęruʔ,
This year has proven to be yet another difficult year. In the Cultural Division, we had to cancel all of our major events: Gathering of Little Turtles, Lacrosse Camp, Gathering, and Pow-Wow.
The Annual Wyandotte Artisan Showcase was planned to be in-person, but with all the cancellations, we transitioned to an online showcase. The showcase is linked at www.wyandotte-nation.org and the Wyandotte Nation Facebook page. We had some wonderful entries and we want to congratulate all of the winners! We especially want to congratulate Roy Smith with his Wyandotte Quilt – he received Best in Show!

We also had to cancel our in-person classes due to not being able to social distance. While this has been challenging, blessings have come out of the situation. We’ve pushed passed our comfort levels and started providing online classes via Facebook Live and Zoom. Through these opportunities, we’ve been able to connect with Wyandotte citizens throughout the country. We’re still working out a few logistical issues but we’re trying to work through them.

One of those issues is reaching out to people. We realize not everyone uses Facebook or may not see all the events. We will send out an email at least monthly to remind people of upcoming events.

If you’d like to receive those emails, please email me, Kim Garcia, at kgarcia@wyandotte-nation.org.

Classes and events we are offering include: traditional pucker toe moccasin making, various beading, shawl making, a monthly history discussion, traditional foods discussion, a quarterly book club, a monthly basic Waⁿdat language class, traditional storytelling, contests, and much more! Please keep in touch to learn about all the upcoming events.

We look forward to working with you and we are eager to host in-person events in the near future!

Eskwayęʔ (I will see you all again!)

Roy Smith showcases his Wyandotte Quilt before the Wyandotte Artisan Showcase. Smith’s quilt was named "Best in Show."
It is now yanędaʔyéⁿdeh (Autumn) and many things are happening: the weather is changing, the days are getting shorter, and the holidays approach. I challenge you to use a few useful Wandat phrases over the next few weeks!

Yanędaʔyéⁿdeh will soon lead to yuhšréndeh (winter), the time for storytelling. I’ll be giving an online class in early December on where to find our traditional stories for those who are interested in exploring them and preparing for our Storytelling session on Jan. 8. If you are interested, we can also prepare a traditional narrative in Wandat!

The days are cooling off but I’m still surprised when I wake up and can say uturéʔ (it is cold). Being able to say ižukwas (it is windy), however, doesn’t surprise me!

When you gather with family and ǫmatęruʔ and share a meal together, try using the following phrases:

kwato ̨́ ʔmesǫnyǫʔ (we give many thanks)
etsikwaⁿgyá:haʔ (we are going to eat)

Looking ahead, if you want to add some Wandat to your holiday greetings and messages, try:

A:skwátǫta:ręʔ ⁿde mętawáhstih aʔyao ̨́ ʔ (Happy Holidays – literally “May you be happy the good day comes”)
Žesus ahatǫgyaʔ (Christmas)
A:skwátǫta:ręʔ ⁿde yaʔⁿdeⁿgyáseʔ aʔyaǫ́ ʔ (Happy New Year)

Remember: AUDIO files are available at wandat.org (click on “Turtle Talk”) and join me every third Wednesday of the month at Wandat Wednesdays (on ZOOM) to practice together.

Tižamęh! Etsiskwayęʔ (I will see y’all again)!

Language Notes

Wyandotte Book Club!

Starting in November 2021, the Cultural Center is hosting an online book club every quarter. For our first meeting we read Braiding Sweetgrass by Robin Wall Kimmerer. Our next meeting will be in February (offered once during the day, once in the evening). Look at the Cultural Center Facebook page to find out what we are reading next! Support your local independent bookstore when you can.

If you’d like to suggest future titles, remember that they 1) must be written by a native author, 2) must be available in paperback, and 3) must be available as an audiobook. If you are interested in leading a future session, let Beci know at bwright@wyandotte-nation.org.

Directory of Wyandotte Names

Being gifted a traditional name in our Wandat language means that no other Wyandotte has the same name. If you have been gifted a name in the past, please be sure to add it to our Directory at www.surveymonkey.com/r/WNames so we can insure it is not used by anyone else during your lifetime. (Over the years, records have been kept in several places and we don’t want to accidentally overlook anyone!) Tižamęh!

If you cannot access the online Directory, please send: your English name, address, birthday, Wyandotte name, when & where you received it, and any story associated with it you’d like to share to the Cultural Center. We’d appreciate it!

Interested in receiving a Wyandotte name? Look for the updated procedure before the end of the year. Or send an email with your interest to bwright@wyandotte-nation.org and we will let you know when the procedure and paperwork is ready.

Pronunciation Reminders: ʔ is a glottal stop, like in the middle of “uh-oh!”; the little hook under a vowel means it is nasal – try to pronounce it using your nose rather than the back of your throat. The colon : is a lengthener – say the vowel that comes before it twice as long as you would normally. And the little accent tells you where to put the stress.
